

Grace Hassell is a Sophomore at Clemson University with a major in Agribusiness and minors in both Spanish Studies and Business Administration. She strives to find a solution to providing fresh produce to low-income areas. Grace hopes to better the process of distributing from farms to a wide range of consumers while maintaining crop integrity. At Clemson, she serves as the Recruitment Chair and Historian for Sigma Alpha Professional Agricultural Sorority. Grace also is a member of the Agribusiness Association, and the Director of Sisterhood for Zeta Tau Alpha. Grace enjoys gardening, hiking, and playing tennis in her free time. She is so thankful for the Southeast Produce Council for supporting her education and granting her the opportunity to learn more about the produce sector.
